SAVANNAH, Ga. - Sophomore second baseman April Jowers has been named the Peach Belt Conference's final 2010 softball Player of the Week, announced today by league officials.

Jowers hit .619 in six games last week, all against PBC opponents. The sophomore had at least one hit in all six contests with five multi-hit games. The Columbus, Ga., native scored eight runs in the six games and drove in another. She went 5-for-7 with a double and an RBI in two games with Flagler on Friday and was 4-for-6 in a doubleheader with Lander on Sunday.

She also had four hits and scored four runs against GCSU on Wednesday. Jowers stole four bases in five attempts, extending her single-season AASU record steal total to 25, and had only one error in 21 chances at second base. She currently leads the PBC in total hits and is third in batting average, while also ranking sixth in runs scored (tie) and 10th in on-base percentage.

Jowers is the only AASU player to earn the league's Player of the Week honors this season. She is the first AASU player to earn PBC softball Player of the Week honors since Erin Billingsley collected the accolade on March 17, 2008.

Jowers and the Pirates will be next in action in the 2010 Peach Belt Conference Championships in Florence, S.C., on Friday, April 16.
